
RITE NOW @ ROP

As families across the planet practice social distancing and adopt new shelter in place measures, an uplifting “Chalk Your Walk” movement has been quietly spreading positivity and creative, meaningful self-expression via social media. In recent days, some Southern California youth and staff have taken to their sidewalks and driveways to create chalk art intended to cheer up their neighbors and positively motivate one another. Residents of the city of Placentia, CA decorated both their windows and sidewalks with drawings and inspirational messages, using the spirit of “Chalk Your Walk” to express their belief that by sticking together and supporting their communities, they can make the uncertain weeks and months ahead a little easier for everyone.
